

Caring For Our Community

You will be amazed at how the Citizens Advice Bureau can help.

Any question on any subject – just pick up the phone. The Citizens Advice Bureau (CAB) wants to be the first port of call for any questions.

I've burnt a pot - How do I fix it?

You name it; they've been asked it:

- I have burnt a pot - how can I fix it before my wife arrives home?
- Is there a worm farm in Kapiti?
- Do you still get congratulations from the Queen for 50 years of marriage?
- We need legal advice - who can help us in Kapiti?
- How do I find a street starting with "L" in Wellington?
- Can I cut a tree that is coming over my fence from the neighbours?
- Where can I get a trespass order?
- I have been declared bankrupt - do I still have to pay my fines?

Volunteer Annabeth and Manager Valerie just love helping people. Valerie started ten years ago as a volunteer. "I think people are lovely. And helping them is so satisfying." She wants to help you celebrate the area you live in: if you need information about what's around you, give CAB a call or drop into their offices.

Annabeth Kew, Margaret Nixon and Valerie Jacobs (pictured), and other CAB staff, are swarmed with information. CAB's "provide a free, impartial and confidential service of information, assistance and referral to people in our communities." Whatever your question, they'll be able to point you in the right direction.
