

Caring For Our Community

Left: Marion Hart, Mary Hallmond, and Maureen Roxburgh engage in one of the craft activities during the weekly get-together. The Care & Craft network has been going strong since 1974. These local groups provide good company and a first-rate lunch, for anyone needing to connect with others.

Dianne Cooper is in the knitting group for part of the Tuesday morning session. She's been coming along for a month and says its good chatting with people. "We have a laugh and it keeps my brain active."

Alison Kayser (treasurer), Maureen Roxburgh (supervisor) and Alison Stirrat (transport coordinator) recognise the need for groups like these in our community. Mrs Stirrat says it can be hard for people to come for the first time, but says "everyone here has had a first day. We know what it's like. If someone is lonely, they just need to contact us."
