

Caring For Our Community

Jacquie Clements says she made a lolly cake for a sad friend. "It put a smile on their face. People should be more generous. It doesn't put you out in any way."

Alana Henderson says taking more time to listen to people's stories is important. "It connects you a bit more to them. But often people are too shy to go through with their impulse to help."

Bill Brown says an out-of-the-blue act of generosity at Christmas time confirmed for him that this is good place to live. "We were flat-out and couldn't stop for lunch. One of our customers came in with food for us and everyone chatted amongst themselves while we ate. It was a little special thing. It's what life is all about."

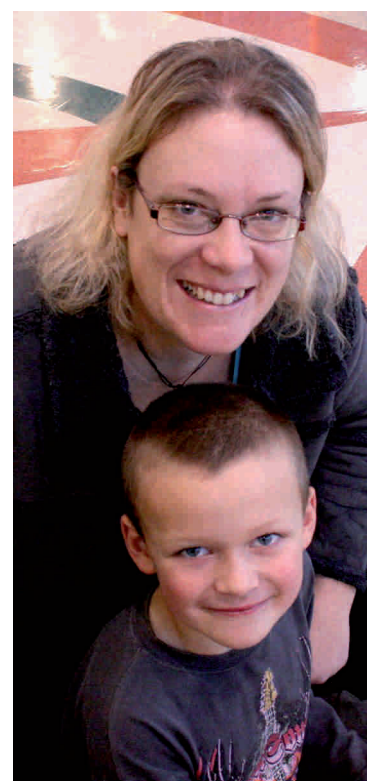

Generosity is part of our nature and a requirement of living in a healthy, happy community. We asked people their thoughts on generosity.

Generosity

And this from Ginny Haynes; "After having a child with a disability, a very wonderful visiting therapist said to me that special children are born to special people who have the ability and love to raise them. It was just what I needed at that time and her generosity of spirit has never left me." You never know what your act of generosity will mean to someone else.

Generosity is our commitment to the world.

With four kids, Helen says doing anything extra is huge, but she finds the time. "You're not doing it to get a reward because you see how happy it makes people." Callum says he puts his favourite teddy blanket over his Mum when she's sleeping.

Mary of Otaki

"The heat pump is absolutely marvellous; it heats up the room in no time. The air conditioning is fantastic; the room was cool and comfortable in minutes, as it gets very stuffy. Getting a heat pump is the best thing that I have done for my home"

Jason of Waikanae

"We would like to pass on our compliments and thanks for a professional and well executed install. The heat pump is ideal in our home and it is wonderful to have a warm house and a lower power bill".
